The Monument honoring the early settlers of Charleston, erected by the Timpanogos Camp of the Daughters of the Pioneers, was dedicated by Patriarch William Daybell on Sept. 7, 1941. It is built on the southwest corner of the Charleston Town Lot. The rocks for the markers were gathered from the hill one-half mile south of where the marker stands. The building of the marker was accomplished by George Watkins of Midway and Frank Webster of Charleston, Utah. The inscription on the monument is as follows:

"In 1859 George Noakes and William Manning and families came to Provo Valley and settled near the Noakes Spring, where they built the first homes. Other settlers soon followed and a church and school house were erected. George Noakes became a leader among the settlers and won the friendship of the Indians. Many of the old land marks are now covered by the Deer Creek Reservoir. The kettle on top of marker was brought across the plains in 1847. Timpanogos Camp
